(Write the most important point of the article up to 50 words)

Abstract

Start writing abstract from here. Abstract must be no longer than 250 words. Choose three keywords that are most relevant to your paper. Use Times New Roman for the article body and Verdana for the section headings. The font size should be 10.5 for all elements of the paper except the article body appearing in 12. For the indentation format, follow this template. For more guidelines other than what is specified in this template, see APA 7th.

1. Major Headings

Section headings are Verdana, font size 10.5, and boldface. They are aligned with the left margin with the first letters capitalized and the rest of the heading in lower case.

(empty line)

1.1 Sub headings

Sub-headings appear like major headings, except the first letter of the first word is capitalized and all the other words are not capitalized.

(empty line)

1.1.1 Sub-sub headings

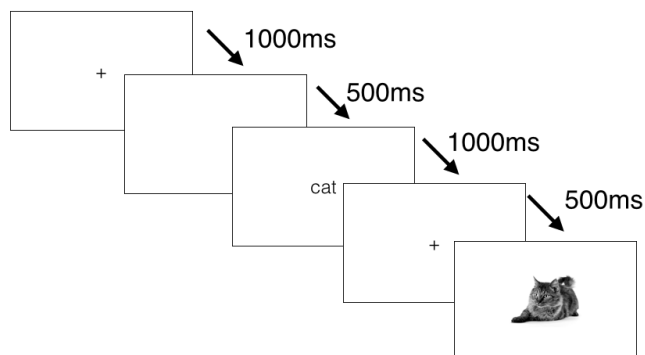

Sub-sub-headings appear like sub-headings, except they are in italics. No more than three levels of headings should be used.

Variable	n	M	SD	95% CI
Variable 1	200	50.13	10.12	[47.21, 51.34]
Variable 2	200	50.32	10.21	[47.91, 51.34]
Variable 3	203	50.21	10.31	[47.31, 52.51]
Variable 4	202	50.21	10.45	[46.21, 54.35]

Note. The table notes should be flush left. The table body should also be flush left. The font should be Verdana for all elements of the table including the number, the title, and the notes. For the table body, a simple sans serif font (e.g., Arial, Calibri, and Lucida Sans) is acceptable. For more guidelines on formatting figures, see Sections 7.8–7.21 (pp. 199–224) in APA 7th.
